How Valuable Is Pre-K

By Dr. R. Pletsch

There is a program in most elementary schools that seems to bring about some very different responses. The program, Pre-School, is hard to find a School Board or politician that stands against Pre-K. But those that study the program question why after all these years, people have not realized it is in some ways a waste of money and there is no bang for the buck.

A recent look at test results in "Education Week" -- "Are the Effect of State Pre-K over rated?" There is some indication its help is very short-lived in readiness, but nothing that lasts. There are some results that indicate the only group that has any residual help is Black boys as their social skills appear to be better than those not in Pre-K.

"Consensus Papers" in 2015 and again in 2017 indicates no long-term academic help for stu-dents. In fact, by 4th grade, those who never attended Pre-K scored higher in standardized tests in Reading, Math and Science. Dale Farran, co-author of "The Tennessee Pre- Research Report" from Vanderbilt from University states that no academic gain for this extra year of school. We should be looking at what we can do that is more program. This is seldom true now because of parental demand and the common knowledge" that the program is good. The Unions back the program because of the number of staff members they support. The number of staff members helps determine the salary of the principals in Chicago and many other places.

In a study that com-pared school district with large Pre-K programs with districts with small Pre-K programs by Grover Whitaker, of the Center of Children and Families of the Brookings Institute, did show slight gain for those with the larger programs, but this was considered statistically insignificant.

While some complain researchers that showing no academic gains for the Pre-K students have trouble getting their papers pub-lished. Just like the hundreds of scientists who go against "common knowledge" of global warming. It's not wanted. Chicago School Board is appointed, therefore, they must vote the way the mayor wants. I have met parents from relatively affluent suburbs that are actively seeking full time Kindergarten and Pre-K in their districts because they want to go back to work. They realize that in Illinois, as well as many other states, neither Pre-K nor Kindergarten are mandated and therefore state funding really starts with 1st grade. Some have indicated that if there were no Kindergarten or Pre-K in the state schools, the schools for the most part would not be in the red because the state has never accepted the full responsibility of schools with extra programs. Like these reports indicate, maybe there is a better way to serve the parents and children. One anecdotal is that in schools at which I was principal, we had active Pre-K programs and many of these parents served on the Local School Councils, PTA,
