

Yang Liping's Sun Palace residence – Lake Erhai, Dali China

www.watermetermuseum.org

Yang Liping's former residence, known as the Sun Palace, is in Dali, Yunnan Province at the northern end of Yuji Island in Shuanglang Ancient Town. This residence was originally her private villa and is now an art space that integrates Bai ethnic architecture with modern minimalist aesthetics. The Sun Palace is surrounded by Lake Erhai.

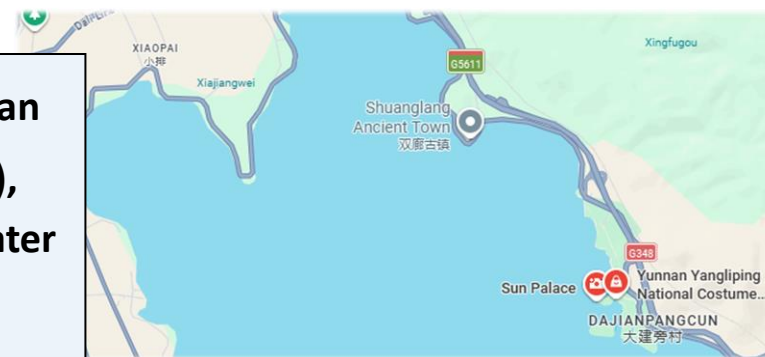

Yang Liping is a Chinese dancer, choreographer, and director of Bai ethnicity celebrated for her signature Dai-inspired peacock dance and known as the "Peacock Princess." A self-taught artist, she rose to fame in 1986 with the award-winning solo Spirit of the Peacock. She has led major productions such as Dynamic Yunnan, Tibetan Mystery, and The Peacock, touring over 30 countries. Her accolades include multiple Lotus Awards, the Gold Award for 20th Century Chinese Classics of Dance, and other international awards.

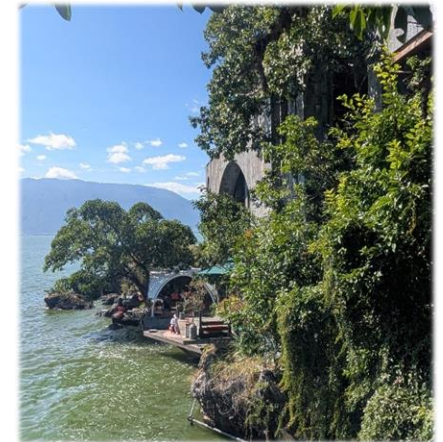

Her other residence a dream-like residence by the Erhai Lake, is called the "Moon Palace". Designed by artist Zhao Qing, it is full of natural features with strange rocks, peaks and centuries-old trees. It is surrounded by the lake on three sides and a perfect combination of nature and architecture.

The Historic Water Meter Museum visited the site on the 26th Sept 2026 and discovered several water meters.

Meter Brand: 川仪 (Chuan Yi / Sichuan Instrument), 15mm Multi-jet cold-water meter, Q3 2.5 m³/h.

www.watermetermuseum.org

Pictured are two Chuan Yi / Sichuan Instrument, 15mm Multi-jet cold-water meters, they appear to be older models without AMR.

