

The convict-built Georgian house was the country residence for the first ten governors of New South Wales. Standing in 200 acres of parkland overlooking historic Parramatta, the convict-built Old Government House and garrison buildings were built between 1799 and 1816, making them the oldest surviving public buildings in Australia. For seven decades Old Government House was the 'country' residence of ten early governors of the Colony, including Governor Lachlan and Mrs Macquarie, who, from 1810 to 1821, preferred the clean air and space of rural Parramatta to the unsanitary and crime ridden streets of Sydney Town.

Outside the front entrance housed in a cage is installed a 40mm Elster PSM/V100 40mm rotary piston wet dial oval flanged water Images taken from Alex Manu's comprehensive site visit August 2025.

Images courtesy of National Trust, Sydney dictionary, Pinterest, Google maps.

www.watermetermuseum.org