Dear ECMA Sub-Association Owners,

We would like to share an important update regarding the management of water and sewer system services within the Eagle Crest Master Association (ECMA).

Earlier this year, California Water Service Group announced that it has entered into an agreement to acquire the Oregon and Nevada water and wastewater operations of Nexus Water Group, which includes Oregon Water Utilities (OWU), the current operator serving the ECMA community.

As a reminder, ECMA owns the water and sewer systems that serve the Eagle Crest Master Association and contracts with OWU for the day-to-day operation and management of these systems. This management structure will remain unchanged as this transition moves forward.

Representatives from California Water Service Group recently met with members of the ECMA Board of Directors and Eagle Crest Management to share their commitment to providing high-quality and reliable utility services. They also expressed their intent to retain the current OWU employees who serve the community, which is an important component in maintaining local knowledge and operational consistency.

The sale of OWU is currently in progress and is expected to close later this year, pending regulatory approvals. During this time, OWU will continue to operate under its existing agreements, and there are no anticipated disruptions to service. Residents should expect continuity in both operations and service levels throughout the transition period.

California Water Service currently operates utilities across several western states. For more information on California Water Service Group and its 100-year anniversary, visit www.calwatergroup.com and https://100years.calwatergroup.com.

Thank you,

Eagle Crest Management
